

Edvin Zhllima is a researcher and lecturer of Agricultural University of Tirana since 2003. He has earned the PhD in Agri-Food Economics and Policy at University of Bologna and the academic title “Associated Professor” from Agricultural University of Tirana (AUT). During this period has conducted research in several fields of study such as resource economics, behaviour economics and gender economics, contributing to more than 40 scientific publications. Edvin has a long experience on agriculture policy consultancy and development assistance in agriculture and rural development. He is a senior practitioner and serves as a consultant for various international organizations namely FAO, UNWOMEN, UNDP, GIZ, USAID and Swiss Cooperation, etc, contributing to various technical reports.